Geneva Community Garden Work Day!

Interested in working on a community garden? Community gardens are popping up all over the country and Geneva is primed and ready to jump on the trend.

The goal of these gardens are to involve community members in growing their own plants and crops as well as provide educational resources to the community about farming and its effects on society.

Sunday October 18th The Geneva Community Garden Committee will be hosting a work day to continue to prep the soil for our garden and are looking for any and all interested VOLUNTEERS! The day will begin at 1pm at the Geneva Community Center located at 160 Carter Road. Interested? Please email kahn@hws.edu or stop by the CCESL Office! Transportation will be provided!

Mobilize.org Democracy 2.0 Grant Summit Exploring the Millennial Generation's ROI (Return on Investment)

The current economic state tells the story of growing national and personal debt; instances of irresponsible spending and lending practices on college campuses and in low-income communities; inadequate health care coverage; and rapidly disappearing safety nets for the Millennial Generation. We must find sustainable and creative ways to solve the problems of our society and ensure that in defining these solutions we are not bankrupting our futures. Mobilize.org joins the Peter G. Peterson Foundation to co-produce and present Exploring the Millennial Generation's ROI (Return on Investment) from November 17th - 20th in Chicago for discussion, debate and action on this important question. Mobilize.org will award grants up to $25,000 for selected projects and proposals that begin to address the barriers preventing our generation from achieving financial health. Please visit their website for more information and apply before October 17th as they seed the action steps that will highlight the leadership, perseverance, innovation and creativity of the millennial generation. For more information, visit: <http://mobilize.org/index.php?tray=event&tid=top417&cid=IS52>

CIVIC LEADERSHIP

TEACHFORAMERICA

Second Application Deadline- Oct. 28, 2009

Teach For America is the national corps of outstanding recent college graduates and working professionals - of all academic majors, backgrounds and career interests - who commit two years to teach in urban and rural public schools and become lifelong leaders for expanding educational opportunity for all children. Each year, Teach For America selects a diverse corps of individuals who have the skills and commitment to make a real impact on the academic prospects of students growing up in low-income communities, and to exert long term leadership in the effort to eliminate educational inequity. Teach For America corps members receive training, a full salary and benefits, as well as continual support through a two-year professional development program to ensure their success as teachers and beyond.

Today there are nearly 17,000 Teach For America alumni working in a variety of sectors, including business, education, law, medicine, and public policy. You can learn more about our graduate school and employer partnerships by clicking on the links below:

THE CHRONICLE OF PHILANTHROPY'S
VolunTV
CHALLENGE

$5,000 GRAND PRIZE
PLUS TWO $2,500 PRIZES
ENTRY DEADLINE: OCTOBER 26

HOME THE CONTEST JUDGES TERMS AND CONDITIONS DIGITAL MEDIA KIT ABOUT PHILANTHROPY.COM

Match Wits With Hollywood

Make your favorite charity part of a TV show! To mark the Entertainment Industry Foundation's "iParticipate" week of volunteer-focused television programs, The Chronicle of Philanthropy is inviting individuals and charity organizations to create their own ideas of how volunteerism could be incorporated into their favorite TV shows.

The Chronicle of Philanthropy has gathered a panel of nonprofit experts and celebrity judges, including the actress Ashley Judd, to determine which entries best incorporate volunteerism into the shows.

Read this article from the The Chronicle for more details on "iParticipate."

http://philanthropy.com/tv_contest/

The Contest:

Think of ways your favorite TV show could develop plots or themes that feature volunteers for your favorite charity and send us your story pitches — either in writing or on video. The Grand Prize winner will receive a $5,000 donation in his or her name to the charity of their choice. Two Silver Prize winners will each receive a $2,500 donation in their name to the charity of their choosing.

As an intern/volunteer with CANY/AQE you will be intellectually challenged, experience real professional growth and gain invaluable experience working as part of a statewide team effecting a positive change in the lives of New York State's public school children!

Join forces with the organization responsible for mobilizing parents and advocates to win the historic education victories of 2007: $7 billion aid increase, accountability reform and a transformation of the outdated school funding system in New York State.

Working at CANY/AQE, you will have the opportunity to develop skills in the following areas:

- Advocacy writing
- Community outreach
- Media relations
- Research
- Data base creation & maintenance
- Legislative organizing

This is an excellent opportunity for students looking to work in the non-profit field, students interested in public policy, and especially students interested in Education Policy. Please be sure to look at the website, www.aqeny.org or www.citizenactionny.org.

We are looking for an intern to come in a few times a week for a few hours each time. Starting date is flexible, preferably early in the semester. Days and hours are flexible.

This internship is unpaid, but provides excellent experience and is great to put on your resume!

Donald J. Eberly Receives William James National Service Lifetime Achievement Award

Donald J. Eberly, founder and honorary president of the International Association for Youth Service, is the recipient of the 2010 William James National Service Lifetime Achievement Award. Given by the National Youth Leadership Council in conjunction with numerous national and international partners, the award recognizes significant lifetime contributions to national service and service-learning. Eberly will receive the award at a ceremony on March, 26, 2010, at the National Service-Learning Conference in San Jose, CA.

"Eberly has worked tirelessly, over more than six decades, to realize his goal of a nonmilitary service option for all," says NYLC founder and CEO Jim Kielsmeier. "As an equally strong supporter of K-12 service-learning, Eberly is proof that one man can make a difference. We could not have found a more deserving recipient." Originally from New York, Eberly has degrees from M.I.T. and Harvard, was drafted and served in the U. S. army, experienced both military and selective service, and taught in Nigeria. In addition to founding and directing IANYS, he also founded and directed the Coalition for National Service as well as the National Service Secretariat.

Over the years, Eberly's national youth service interests have led him to convene conferences, testify before the U.S. Congress and Canadian parliament, develop a plan at the request of a Presidential Commission, conduct a number of research studies, and evaluate projects on almost every continent. He has also headed a special division of federal selective service on nonmilitary conscription. Widely published, he most recently co-authored the book Service without Guns (2006) with Reuven Gal.

"For many years, Don Eberly almost single-handedly kept the idea of civic service alive in federal policy discussions," says colleague Michael Sheraden of the Center for Social Development at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. "This very large idea is gradually taking hold in the United States and around the world." Eberly lives in New Zealand with his children and grandchildren, where he continues to write and advise on national service issues.
